Part IV - SUPERVISOR REVIEW/RECOMMENDATION

1. Summary of Applicable Law

As a supervisor, your obligation and the duty of the employee seeking the outside arrangement are first and foremost to USDA and the successful accomplishment of its mission. If the outside activity is approved, it is part of your supervisory responsibilities to monitor the employee's compliance with applicable ethics laws and regulations.

An outside activity conflicts with official duties if it is prohibited by statute or regulation or would require the employee's recusal from matters so central or critical to the performance of his or her official duties that the employee's ability to perform the duties of his or her position would be materially impaired. Such a recusal would likely be required where the outside activity involves an employer or entity that is regulated by, does business with, receives grants or other benefits from, or is otherwise substantially impacted by the programs, policies and operations of the employee's agency.

Consider the following when reviewing this request:

- Do the circumstances indicate that the invitation to engage in the activity was extended to the employee primarily because of his or her official position rather than inherent expertise on the particular subject matter? How was this expertise acquired?
- Was the invitation to engage in the activity extended to the employee, directly or indirectly, by a person or entity who has interests that may be affected substantially by the performance or nonperformance of the employee's official duties?
- Will the information conveyed through the activity draw substantially on ideas or official data that are nonpublic information?
- Does the subject matter relate to any matter(s) to which the employee is presently assigned or has been assigned during the previous one-year period or to any ongoing or announced policy, program or operation of the agency?
- Is the employee being asked to apply previously published work to specific scenarios posed by a private entity? In this circumstance, it is important to consider whether the employee is continuing to conduct official USDA research in the same area as his or her published findings.

If you determine that the subject area of the activity is too closely related to the employee's official duty and the activity is not appropriate as an outside activity, a separate analysis must be conducted before consideration should be given to whether or not the activity would be more appropriately performed as an official duty. You must conclude that the employee seeking approval to engage in the activity in an official capacity is the appropriate person to represent USDA with respect to that subject matter. It is part of USDA's mission to disseminate information; however, agencies must be careful not to give preferential treatment to one entity, allowing that entity to have an advantage because of the exclusive receipt of government information. Consult your Agency Ethics Official for additional guidance.

2. Immediate Supervisor's Statement (MANDATORY)

Describe the extent to which the employee's official duties are related to the proposed activity. If not related, explain:

3. Recommendation

The undersigned supervisor, identified in Part 1, Item 7, has reviewed the employee's responses, obtained additional information where appropriate, and recommends the following action:

Recommend Approval

If this box is checked, the supervisor understands that, if the outside activity is approved, the employee may be disqualified from performing official duties that involve or affect any outside entity with which the employee has an outside employment, consulting, or similar relationship. If the activity constitutes employment or service as an officer, director, or trustee, or in another fiduciary role, the recusal obligation may extend not only to government matters that specifically involve or affect the outside entity, but to those matters that affect generally the industry or economic sector in which the outside entity operates. The supervisor understands that any agency work assignments involving specific or general matters from which the employee will be recused must be reassigned to another employee and are not so central or critical to the performance of the employee's official duties that the employee's ability to perform the duties of his or her position would be materially impaired.

Recommend Disapproval

If this box is checked, explain the reason(s) for disapproval in the space provided below.
